Obituary

Huntingdon funeral service held for Jocelyne Saint-Onge Castagnier, 47

Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon, on Tuesday morning Aug. 14 for Jocelyne Saint-Onge Castagnier of Huntingdon, who died Friday Aug. 10 at the Barrie Memorial Hospital in Ormstown after a lengthy illness, bravely borne. She was 47.

For 25 years the wife of Gleaner general manager André Castagnier, Jocelyne Castagnier was well-known in her own right in the Huntingdon area as a businesswoman who was also active in community affairs.

Since April 1998, when she was first diagnosed with cancer, she fought bravely against the disease which finally claimed her life.

"Jocelyne passed away quietly after fighting all the way, without ever uttering a word of complaint," agreed two of her sisters, Michelle and Carole, and sister-in-law Lise McDonagh.

A Godmanchester native, Jocelyne Castagnier was involved in several businesses over the years, including a ceramics shop, as well as operating a day care service in her home. Along with her husband, a brother-in-law and a sister-in-law, she also helped run a Valleyfield photo shop for three years. Her last enterprise was the Joca Boutique on Dalhousie St. in Huntingdon.

Her community activities included a six-year stint with the Huntingdon Summer Festival organizing group, and she served on the school committee at Notre-Dame School in Huntingdon.

The mother of two daughters, Mélanie and Sonia, she actively supported her husband in his business and community activities. She was known for her common sense and her sense of humor.

"Jocelyne backed her husband in everything — she was his main advisor and his right hand. She said what she thought and helped him come to the right decision," said a family member.

Large numbers of relatives, friends and business associates attended visitation hours at the funeral home on Monday evening and Tuesday morning before the funeral services. Memorial donations in her name may be made to the Canadian Cancer Society or the Foundation of the Barrie Memorial Hospital.
