Man found strangled in Ste-Agnès

Victim had long criminal record, police say

A 48-year-old Montreal man well-known to police was found strangled Friday in his Ste-Agnes-de-Dundee summer home, a few kilometres from the American border.

Lamarche's body was discovered by his wife at 10 p.m. June 14 inside their luxurious Pointe Leblanc cottage. An autopsy will be performed this week, but police say Michel Lamarche had been involved in a struggle before his death, which they believe occurred Thursday night, June 13.

The victim was last seen alive around 4:30 p.m. that afternoon on his property, according to witnesses who spoke to the Sûreté du Québec's crimes-against-persons squad.

A police spokesman would not comment on whether the murder is connected with Lamarche's past criminal record, which includes a 1992 conviction under Excise Laws, for trafficking in smuggled tobacco products. In 1981, Lamarche was convicted of plotting to commit a robbery, and in 1978 he was charged with drug possession, among other offences.

A red 1992 Chevrolet Jimmy found in a small wooded area near the former Solitude de Ste-Croix beside Lake St. Francis in St-Anicet, some 10 km from the cottage, belonged to Lamarche, according to police.

Anyone with information is asked to call (514) 598-4043 or 598-4242. The Sûreté du Québec's crimes-against-persons squad is conducting the investigation.
