Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Waller celebrate Golden Wedding

Glenn and Grace Waller, glowing with happiness, were honored at a celebration for their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The family arranged a memorable gathering at the Ormstown Curling Club, on Saturday afternoon Oct. 12. The newly renovated club was tastefully decorated with an autumn theme and included memorabilia celebrating the interests of both Glenn and Grace: apple-picking items, apples, flowers and several of Grace's beautiful prize-winning quilts.

Throughout the afternoon, friends, neighbors and family came to congratulate the Wallers on their special day. Guests were served a dainty lunch along with a pretty anniversary cake, made by cake artist Bev Cocher. A fountain of fresh apple juice was flowing for all to enjoy.

Wedding Day

Fifty years ago on October 12, 1946, Glenn and Grace exchanged their wedding vows at St. Paul's United Church in Ormstown.

Grace walked down the aisle in a white floor-length gown, attended by her sister and maid-of-honor May Blair, Jean Nussey and sister Audrey Elliott; Jean McQueen was her flower girl. Glenn's best man was his brother Carl.

Homecoming

The Wallers were surrounded by their entire family for the special anniversary. Son Bryan from Winnipeg, daughter Nancy of Georgetown, Ont. and their spouses and families, as well as Cindy and her children of Lunenburg, Ont., joined Bob and Betty, Brent and Debbie and their families at Rockburn.

John and Laura Walter of Edmonton also made the long journey. These folks have been friends for many years. Glenn met them while working on a wheat harvest on the prairies.

Jean Nussey (Grace's bridesmaid) and husband Kelly travelled home from Halifax to share in the celebration.

Highlights

With 50 years of marriage behind them, the Wallers have a long list of things to be proud of.

They are semi-retired from their farming operation on the homestead on Rte 202 near Rockburn, where they are known for orchard produce, maple syrup, and Angus beef cattle.

They have enjoyed several trips across Canada and the U.S.A., and when Grace could find the time she made some 43 quilts as a hobby. Their eye-catching designs and intricate needlework have won her many prizes at local fairs.

The Wallers have always had time to lend a hand with church work and in the community.

The anniversary celebration continued for several days, as folks dropped in and cards continued to arrive, wishing many more happy years and good health.
