LEGROS - Beryl (Ovans) - Remembering our Mom, Beryl Ovans Legros who died on April 10, 1999. We remember her smile and slowly we replace our tears,
Loving memories bring us comfort to last throughout the years.
He whispered her name and carried her away, before we had the chance to say:
"Dear Lord, let her stay, we need her on earth for many more days".
If clocks could turn back time, surely we could talk again and things would be just fine...

But, it can't be so, this we know,
So Mom, please believe that everyday, in everyway, our love for you will grow...

Your family,
Debbie, Pierre,

Obituary

Mike Cavanagh remembered for trucking stories

Funeral services were held March 15 at Huntingdon's St. Joseph's Church for Michael John Cavanagh of Huntingdon, who died March 13 at the Barrie Memorial Hospital in Ormstown. He was 74.

Mike, as he was known to his many friends, was born March 19, 1928 on the family farm in Ormstown, the eldest of seven children of John Lawrence Cavanagh and Gladys (Foran) Cavanagh.

Michael John Cavanagh.

Educated in Ormstown, he worked many years on the farm before deciding to follow in his father's footsteps as a truck-driver. He hauled cattle, milk, lumber and wet and dry feed during his 45-year trucking career, working long hard hours and not seeing much of his family.

At 35, he married Esther van Diepeningen on August 31, 1963. The couple had three children: John (Donna); Patricia Ann, who predeceased him in 1993; and Shirley.

Mike retired from the milk truck in 1992, and came home to look after his "hobby farm". His beef and chickens were his pride and joy, and he also loved to have people drop in so he could tell stories of his trucking days — the places he had been, the many miles he had covered and the problems he had encountered over the years.

He had many friends and took every chance he could get (when he wasn't telling trucking stories) to play any of a wide variety of card games with them.

The church was full for the funeral, an appropriate tribute to his life in the community and to his family. Pall-bearers were nephews Roger and Réal Robidoux, Russell Cavanagh, Ronald Ricard, Richard Prieur and Rusty van Diepeningen. Burial will take place in spring at St-Malachie Cemetery in Ormstown.

Mike will be missed by many people, especially his numerous friends at the Legion. His family has been touched by the support and help from the close-knit community.
